

Summary:

5 The present Patent of Invention and its subdivisions refer to a state-of-the-art and innovative device that consists in a fastener of books, newspapers, magazines, paper pads, laptops, e-books and binders which structures possess a special design that provides the user an unlimited number of characteristics and functions highlighting among them the portability, maneuverability, functionality and easy reading of books, newspapers, magazines, paper pads, laptops and e-books. Since the structure is manufactured with light and aesthetic materials, it will be available in different thickness and many sizes as small, standard, medium, large and extra-large.

10 This state-of-the-art fastener of books, newspapers, magazines, paper pads, laptops, e-books and binders was conceived to satisfy the needs in the market of accessories for the reader and user of portable computers (laptops) and electronic books (e-books); providing an extremely useful and light structure that satisfies the multiple needs of these users regarding the use and handling of all reading material like 15 books, newspapers, magazines, notebooks, portable computers (laptops) and electronic books (e-book).